

Peking Man: Anatomy of an Unsolved Mystery

Join us Monday, May 18, at 7:30 p.m. at 700 Hartford Turnpike in Hamden when we'll welcome back Central Connecticut State University anthropology professor Ken Feder with another in his series of fascinating talks, many based on his book Frauds, Myths and Mysteries.

The tale of the discovery, excavation, and sadly, the disappearance of the Peking Man fossils is one filled with serendipity (both good and bad) intrigue, war, torture, and sex. Well, okay, not sex (that we know of). When discovered and excavated in the 1920s and 1930s, the fossils found in a cave some 40 miles outside of Beijing reflected the most substantial accumulation of human ancestors ever found at a single site, representing more than forty individuals and about a dozen nearly complete crania. Housed for years at the Peking Union Medical College, the specimens fell victim to a combination of stupendously bad luck, tragedy, and human stupidity. All of the precious Peking Man fossils disappeared in the 1940s and none have been seen since.

Were the fossils destroyed? Probably. Were they irretrievably lost, never to be seen again? Likely. Then again, might they be ensconced in a packing crate in a warehouse in China or a royal palace in Japan? Even more interestingly, are they currently hidden in an attic or basement here in the United States?

Convention Season

If you're not going to the American Humanist Association's annual convention in Phoenix, Arizona, on June 5-7, 2009, you may be interested in attending the Bertrand Russell Society's annual meeting at Central Connecticut State University in New Britain, Connecticut the same weekend. http://users.drew.edu/~jlenz/brs.html

Maybe you have them. It actually is possible.

Archaeologist Ken Feder will tell the fascinating on-going tale of the as yet fruitless search for the missing fossils of Peking Man on Monday, May 18. Join us 7:30 p.m. for coffee and conversation, followed by brief announcements and Ken's talk at 8:00 p.m. Bring a friend!

Conversations: The Big Sort

Join us on Saturday, May 2, at USNH, 700 Hartford Turnpike at 2:30 p.m.

In May, 2008, journalist Bill Bishop wrote a book with Robert G. Cushing called, "The Big Sort." (See www.thebigsort.com) In the last thirty years, America has sorted itself into like-minded "tribes." What are the consequences of this? We will watch and discuss a video that introduces the concept and process that led to the book.

Refreshments will be served.

"Tuesdays with Morrie" on 5/9

The next book we will read is "Tuesdays with Morrie: An Old Man, a Young Man, and Life's Greatest Lesson" by Mitch Albom (Note: This is the book by Mitch Albom, not the play of the same title by Jeffrey Hatcher and Mitch Albom, although you may want to read the play as well as the book.) We will meet to discuss "Tuesdays with Morrie" on Saturday, May 9, from 3:00 p.m. until 5:00 p.m. at USNH, 700 Hartford Turnpike in Hamden. As always, feel free to invite a friend or two.

For those who like to listen to books, "Tuesdays with Morrie" is also available as an audiobook, narrated by the author. Quotes from the book: "So many people walk around with a meaningless life. They seem half asleep, even when they are busy doing things they think are important. This is because they're chasing the wrong things. The way you get meaning into your life is to devote yourself to loving others, devote yourself to loving others, devote yourself to your community around you, and devote yourself to creating something that gives you purpose and meaning."

"A casual stroll through the lunatic asylum shows that faith does not prove anything."

"In truth, there was only one Christian, and he died on the cross."

Bible Discussion — David the King, Solomon, after Solomon

The next meeting of the HAC Bible Discussion Group will be held from 3:00 p.m. until 5:00 p.m. on Saturday, May 30 at USNH, 700 Hartford Turnpike in Hamden. As always, please do the reading and feel free to bring a friend.
