A Non-theistic “Modern Synthesis” of Humanism and Naturalism

We are pleased to welcome Dr. John Hooper, current president of the Association of Unitarian Universalist Humanists (HUUmanists), to tell us about a non-theistic “modern synthesis” of Humanism and Naturalism on Monday, November 21 at 7:30 p.m. at 700 Hartford Turnpike in Hamden.

About his talk, John tells us: “Naturalists have taken a leadership role in celebrating the awesome epic of biological evolution. Humanists have celebrated the shared human experience of being alive and the inherent worth and dignity of all living human beings. Defending human freedom and drawing on the revelations of science (without resorting to supernatural hypotheses), both humanists and naturalists seek to continuously improve our objective understanding of the universe and our place in it. Exciting new multidisciplinary scientific studies are leading to new revelations about the nature of human experience itself. This nascent ‘naturalizing of experience’ provides a unique opportunity for celebrating a ‘modern synthesis’ of humanism and naturalism that requires absolutely no supernatural considerations.”

John Hooper is a retired scientist and research & development executive (Ph.D., 1969, in chemistry from Carnegie Mellon University). Dr. Hooper subsequently earned a Master of Arts in Liberal Arts from Clark University in 2001. Since his retirement in 2003, he has pursued interests in science and religion, naturalism, humanism, and

Conversations, Transcendent Man

Join us on Saturday, November 5, at 2:30 p.m. when Humanist Conversations will view and discuss the first half of the 2009 documentary on Ray Kurzweil and his ideas, "Transcendent Man" (<http://www.imdb.com/title/tt1117394/>). In addition to Kurzweil's explanation of his "law of accelerating returns" and its implications, the film includes opinions from both his supporters and his critics. Dennis Kababik will be leading the post-film discussion, which will center around the concept of the singularity, which is well defined in the film, and what this means to the future of evolution. Refreshments will be served.

400 Thanksgiving Dinners

Since Meals on Wheels does not deliver dinners on Thanksgiving Day, each year the Downtown Evening Soup Kitchen (DESK), affiliated with the Interfaith Cooperative Ministries (ICM), takes 300 names of elderly people, and ICM volunteers deliver Thanksgiving dinners to them. They also prepare a sit-down dinner for 100 of New Haven's homeless and working poor. If you could prepare or deliver food or write a check to "ICM" and send it to June Schafer, 27 Thornton Street, Hamden CT 06517-1321, it would be greatly appreciated. If you have questions call (203) 281-6232.

Book Group: "Predictably Irrational"

The next HAC book discussion will be on Saturday, December 10, from 3 p.m. until 5 p.m., at USNH, 700 Hartford Turnpike in Hamden. The book we will be reading is "Predictably Irrational: The Hidden Forces That Shape Our Decisions" by Dan Ariely. Lots of copies are available in Connecticut public libraries <<http://www.iconn.org/FindALibraryInConnecticut.aspx?cat=consortia>> as well as in book stores and online. Carol Siddall will be the moderator. Refreshments will be served.

Dan Ariely is the James B. Duke Professor of Psychology and Behavioral Economics at the Fuqua School of Business. He studies how people actually act in the marketplace, as opposed to how they should or would if they were rational beings. His books let the reader join in his explorations.
